Town Staff Prepares for Winter

Long before the snow falls, Town of Vienna Public Works staff start preparing for the worst, while hoping for the best in winter weather. Snow-removal trucks and equipment are tuned up, supplies are checked and stocked, and this fall, a team of new drivers climbed aboard the Town’s brine trucks for training on how to pre-treat roads. Training involved only water, and it gave the new drivers a chance to learn how to operate the equipment in a calm, non-emergency environment.

“We like to be as prepared as possible to minimize the impact of any wintery weather we might get,” said Jeff Tufano, the Town’s general maintenance and traffic engineering supervisor. “The winter brine application training is just one part of an entire operation that helps us ensure residents are safe and all our drivers are ready when the time comes.”

Public Works isn’t the only department bracing for winter. Every Town department leader has been reviewing winter-weather protocols together to ensure everyone knows their role in various winter-weather scenarios ranging from emergency response to public communication. The Town’s emergency management team meets regularly to discuss standard operating procedures and emergency contingencies as they track the forecast, determine the timeline for the snow removal response, and adjusts the plan as needed. All of this and more make certain that when snow is in the forecast, the Town is as prepared as possible to take action. 📌

Digging for Answers

Heads up! If you see Public Works crews working at the meter box in your front yard, don’t be alarmed. They are just checking your water pipes to make sure they comply with the revised Lead and Copper Rule released by the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) in 2021. The revision requires all water systems, including the Town of Vienna system, to take inventory of all service lines and make the information public.

From now through 2024, expect Public Works crews to visit every meter box in the Town’s water system. Crews will dig within the box to expose the service lines, verify, and record the material of each pipe.

For more information on how the Town monitors lead and copper, and to view the 2022 Water Quality Report, visit www.viennava.gov/2022waterquality, or call 703 319-8611. 📌

Drug Take Back Day Nets Huge Haul

Vienna Police collected a whopping 373 pounds of expired and unused medications during National Drug Take Back Day on Saturday, Oct. 29. That’s about the weight of an upright piano or a large refrigerator! In just four hours, residents dropped off that much unwanted medication at the temporary Vienna Police Headquarters, and officers later delivered them to the Virginia State Police for proper disposal.

The October event was the 23rd National Drug Take Back Day, which is held in conjunction with the U.S. Drug Enforcement Administration and local and state law enforcement agencies. If you missed the October event, there are other options for getting rid of your unwanted medications safely any day. The most convenient location for Vienna residents is CVS Pharmacy, located at 337 Maple Ave. E. 📌

Mark Your Calendar

The 2023 Town of Vienna calendar is almost here! Town residents and businesses will soon receive a copy by mail, and additional copies will be available for pickup at the Patrick Henry Library, the Vienna Community Center and Vienna Town Hall. The new calendar features artwork from the Vienna Arts Society, a schedule of Town events and public meetings and helpful information about Town services and ways you can get involved in the community. The free calendar is expected to arrive by mid-December. 📍

Last Call for 2022 Holiday Ornaments

Get your 2022 Town of Vienna Holiday Ornament just in time for the holidays! This year's ornament highlights the LOVE sign along the W&OD Trail at Northside Park, and it is available for purchase at the Vienna Community Center and at Vienna Town Hall. If you want one, you'd better hurry! Stock is limited.

If you're a collector, a handful of the inaugural "Taking Flight" ornaments from 2021 are still available. The cost of each year's ornament is $25, and proceeds will be used to support public art projects in Vienna. For more information, email Shelley Kozlowski, Deputy Town Clerk: shelley.kozlowski@viennava.gov or call 703-255-6303. 📍

A Curbside Christmas

After the holidays, ever wonder what to do with those once festive, but now pesky, live Christmas trees? The Town will take them off your hands after you remove all decorations, including tinsel, and place them curbside with your trash. Please do not place trees in a bag. Public Works crews will collect the dead Christmas trees through the month of January, and the trees will eventually be chipped into mulch. Think of it as a holiday gift for Mother Nature! 📍

Sorting Fact From Fiction Online

Monday, Dec. 12 • 11 a.m.-12 p.m. • Vienna Community Center

Do you believe everything you see online? Sensationalized headlines, misleading stories and even complete falsehoods circulating on the Internet make it hard for even the most discerning reader to sort fact from fiction. How do you know what to believe? Which news sources can you trust? In this free program, AARP volunteer Larry Lapman helps you identify what is fact and what is not. Armed with valuable tools and resources, you'll walk away confident in your ability to verify online content and spot red flags.

“A Christmas Carol” At Olney Theatre

Wednesday, Dec. 14 • 1:30-6:30 p.m. • Olney Theatre, Maryland

In a season stuffed with varied versions of the classic yuletide tale, Paul Morella's solo performance stands apart for its devotion to Dickens' original language and storytelling genius. One extraordinary performer brings to life Scrooge and his specters, the whole Cratchett family, and celebrants of Christmases past, present, and future — more than 40 different characters in all. Trip departs from the Vienna Community Center. Cost is $74 for Town residents and $92.50 for non-residents.

Go Green for the Holidays

By Christina Caplan, Conservation and Sustainability Commission

Want to support the Town of Vienna and help the environment this holiday season? Here are some eco-friendly holiday gift ideas that support local businesses and benefit the Town.

- Make a donation of public art, a tree, a bench, or support for Vienna parks and recreation. www.viennava.gov/ParkDonations.
- Shop local and purchase services, merchandise, or a gift card from a local business or restaurant, especially one that has earned a Sustainability Challenge award. www.viennava.gov/challenge.
- Give classes (cooking, art, photography, dog training, yoga, wine tasting, language, music, and so much more!). Purchase from local businesses or check out offerings from Vienna's Department of Parks and Recreation. www.viennava.gov/parkguide.
- Decrease someone's carbon footprint with a compost bin, reusable straws and cutlery, or a stainless steel water bottle. Avoid gifts with excess packaging.

All these gift ideas cut down on the economic and environmental costs of production, transport, and waste disposal – all while giving a boost to the Town of Vienna. More great ideas are at <https://bit.ly/waste-freegifts>. 📌

We Want You!

Here's a great way to make a difference in your community: sign up to serve on a Town committee! If you're a bike enthusiast, sign up to serve on the Bicycle Advisory Committee. Got a head for business? How about serving on the Town Business Liaison Committee? There are also vacancies on the Vienna Public Art Commission and the Transportation Safety Commission.

Each committee and commission helps advance the Town's strategic goals by providing guidance and insights on specific areas of interest. The Vienna Town Council appoints applicants to serve, giving individuals the opportunity to be even more involved in the Town government.

Everyone is encouraged to apply. Eligible applicants must live in the 22180 zip code and be a registered voter. To learn more and to apply, visit <https://bit.ly/tovbacopenings>. 📌

Re-Examining Electronic Public Meetings

By Councilmember Nisha Patel

During the period between March 2020 to December 2021, the Vienna Town Council participated in work sessions and meetings electronically due to the COVID-19 pandemic. Since that time, vaccinations and therapies have been developed to treat COVID-19, and consequently, the emergency ordinance and state legislation allowing electronic meetings ended, and elected bodies, such as the Vienna Town Council, are now required to attend public meetings in person, with limited exceptions for emergencies or health-related reasons.

I think this law should be re-examined to allow for more electronic participation for governing bodies, specifically for work sessions and advisory meetings. While I enjoy being in Town Hall, seeing familiar faces and listening to concerns in person, there are some disadvantages. Allowing for electronic meetings gives people who cannot make it to Town Hall for meetings in person to be able to watch and participate in meetings virtually. Additionally, the number of individuals that might volunteer or run for government positions could expand as there are lots of busy folks in town who would be able to fit an electronic meeting into their busy schedule. For example, a single parent who may need to put his or her child to bed could then log on from home to govern. Or perhaps there's someone who has physical or lifestyle limitations in getting to Town Hall every week.

Opening meetings to electronic participation would foster diversity among candidates who may consider running for office. COVID-19 gave us an opportunity to participate electronically and during that time, we were able to accomplish many things. I strongly feel it's time to revisit electronic participation for elected officials at the state and local level. 🇺🇸

Topic on deck: Winter Snow Preps
